Against Punk, New Wave, Avantgarde & Minimalist Composers

Licking labels
 like "ambient fourth world music"

Hearing sounds
 the final appropriations of all the men who have blown each other down all the tubes of creation molimo of millenia dijerido of the dead and down

Mocked out
 Mechanized
 Made ambient airport art for recreation of celebrities

It excites the white boy mind more than Jack Barth or Frank Zappa to create a whole hip tribe on tape

Aboriginals of third world die Originality of first world individuals make heap big fourth world beyond 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and all mere labels

Filtered winds
 Recycled ululations
 Snipped vocal cords Bottom beats stolen from battered Burundi by punk posers and Composers aware of the administrative massacres so sensitive to suffering

They die and die and die some more While corporations have their way No need to name the Nambikwara or any other people fading fast We have the myths, the dream theories the songs on LP records

Any creative Artist with 16 tracks of tape and the appropriate technology can replace the people amendment by total substitution Make water
 Add insects and peeper frogs (digital and analog) Modulate mouth piece
 Dissect dead birds
 Grab gamelan and bits of Afro-xylophone Above all blow down the tubes Fallopian frustration tuned test tubes cracking pan pipes turning world's last tendernesses into echocatastrophe

 From clock springs
 Hacksaw blades
 Bobby pins
 Nails
 Agidigbo!
 Kalimba!
 Mbira!
 Old and new names for sounds from scrap Do agidigbo and piri
 Do the do stay put in you Accept no substitootings no substasquatings
 no dub rastafartings Do agidigbo till fingers bleed or the steel is softened Certain that thickened skin is skin not the enfolded skin of calloused mind Hold on to names of all the plants and pipes and peoples
 All the softness is still ours
 All the gentleness of small sounds chipmunks in fall leaves clay flake wind chimes mosses growing snaildarter darting Every motion has its sound every sound its emotion

Every animal one track all its own and not 16

Without lamps
We spend more time awake in darkness
Looking into fires and trees Without motors
We hear all of nature's drones
Feel the slightest chirpings in our bones Bring the outside world into our homes Commemorating with rhyme and reason mime in season
The source of every sound

Stephen Child,

Other Villages Other Voices

Village voices in Nigeria Muhammadu Marwa's people cry out But are not heard here in Manhattan Children in mass graves outside Kano Small news arriving late in New York City

But Sunny Ade's smile is front page stuff Yoruba minstrels bringing the original jive
The prototype shuffle, aboriginal cakewalks Big winks and rolling eyes to the big city Serene smiles blind to all corruption Wicked cool ices memories of Biafra
Or any meditation on Nigerian crude sold cheap'
The Bonny crude, pure, clean, sulphur-free Black gold, black futures sold to Seven Sisters While Sunny smiles and takes his little steps
The hip bro wonders if "Bob may have been forwarded
So that Sunny could save the West with juju music."

According to some mysterious cosmic mastah plan

I like the man, I love the music, I put five On the wet forehead of the talking drummer (amplified to sound like Western cannon)
For playing nicely to the baby girl
So chubby and fine she should have been twins
But I am not fooled
