EDITOR'S NOTE

The History of Science Society and the Canadian Society for the History and Philosophy of Science, with the financial assistance of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, co-sponsored a session on 'Science and Empire' in Toronto in October 1980. The articles in this number by Raymond Duchesne and Richard Jarrell are revised and refereed versions of two of the three papers read at the session. The editors wish to thank Prof Trevor Levere of the University of Toronto for acting as editor for the latter paper.

In our next number, we will present papers read at a similar session in Toronto on Canadian Technology, which was co-sponsored by CSHPS and the Society for the History of Technology, with financial assistance from SSHRCC.
