Contributors

Volume 101, numéro 2, fall 2009

URI : <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/1065630ar>

DOI : <https://doi.org/10.7202/1065630ar>

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

The Ontario Historical Society

ISSN

0030-2953 (imprimé)

2371-4654 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

(2009). Contributors. Ontario History, 101(2), 187–187.

<https://doi.org/10.7202/1065630ar>

Contributors

Dr. John C. Carter is a Museum & Heritage Advisor for the Ontario Ministry of Culture. He has researched aspects of the Canadian rebellions of 1837/38 as a Visiting Fellow at the Australian National University, Canberra, and the University of Tasmania, Hobart. He can be contacted at John.Carter@Ontario.ca.

Dennis Carter-Edwards is currently the Cultural Resource Specialist for the Trent-Severn Waterway National Historic Site of Canada. Previously, he was a Research Historian with Parks Canada specializing in military history. A past president of The Ontario Historical Society and former Director of Community Heritage Ontario, Mr. Carter-Edwards has published extensively on aspects of Ontario's history. His most recent project was a traveling exhibit prepared in partnership with the Ontario Archives on the career of David Thompson.

Dr. Tom Dunning has conducted research on aspects of the Upper Canadian Rebellions of 1837/38 for nearly twenty-five years. He has published numerous articles related to this research in Australian, Canadian and American journals. He is currently Head of the School of History and Classics, University of Tasmania.

Bob Garcia is a historian at the Ontario Service Centre of Parks Canada, with research responsibilities for Parks' operated national historic sites across the province. From 2002 to 2007 he was the historian supporting the Fort Henry National Historic Site stabilization project. Bob was educated at McGill University (B.A., history), Concordia University for a graduate diploma in library studies and at the University of Western Ontario where he earned a Master's in Library and Information Science. He is a past president of the Essex County Historical Society and has served eight years in the Canadian Grenadier Guards of Montreal.

Chris Raible is a Creemore based historical writer with a special interest in William Lyon Mackenzie and Upper Canadian history. He is the author of several books and numerous articles and reviews appearing in Ontario History, The Beaver, and The York Pioneer.