Notes and Inquiries

Of special interest to readers of the review is the announcement of publication of the first extensive bibliography on urban history in Canada. It is Canadian Urban History: A Selected Bibliography (Sudbury: Laurentian University Press, 1972). 65 pp. Compiled by Gilbert A. Stelter. Copies are available for $2 from Laurentian University Bookstore, Sudbury, Ontario. The bibliography is divided in three, Part I being "The Study of Urban History", Part II being "Selected Topics in Urban History" and Part III being "The Rise of Urban Canada: Regional" Non-Canadian sources of general application are included in the publication, particularly in Parts I and II, but the bulk of the references are by Canadian authors or institutions and on Canadian subjects. Included in Part II, Topics in Urban History, are listings on planning, architecture, government and politics, economic growth, population, class, ethnicity, social problems, the urban church and the single-enterprise community. Material in Part III includes direct references for most of the major cities in Canada.

The urban history committee of the Canadian Historical association met during the June meetings of the Learned Societies at McGill University in Montreal. The three urban sessions held at the CHA meetings and the initial issue of the Review were discussed. Suggestions were put forward for next year's meetings to be held in Kingston, and included proposals for a session on the teaching of urban history and one which would involve participation, possibly in the form of joint papers, with other disciplines. Sessions on Kingston and on the history of urban planning were also suggested. Preparation by the urban history committee for the 1973 meetings will begin formally in the autumn. Suggestions for the agenda or for specific papers should be made to Gilbert Stelter, chairman of the committee, History Department, Laurentian University, Sudbury, Ontario, or to the editors of the review.
