BC STUDIES

Edited by Margaret Prang and Walter Young

B C Studies is a scholarly quarterly devoted to all aspects of human history in British Columbia. Each issue of the journal is divided into three sections: articles covering a wide range of interests such as anthropology, economics, resource management development, history, sociology, and archaeology; reviews of books and publications related to British Columbia; and a bibliography of recently published material, both governmental and private, about the province.

In addition to regular editions, the journal publishes approximately one special issue a year—past examples include issues on archaeology in British Columbia, the economy of British Columbia, and Indians of British Columbia.

Annual subscription $5.00

Current issues $2.00

Back issues $3.00

Special issues $4.00

We gratefully acknowledge the financial support given to Acadiensis by the Canada Council, the University of New Brunswick and the University of New Brunswick Alumni Association.
