only the sample plans were kept, giving details such as the name of the company, the number of employees concerned, the existence or not of a union, etc. This digest illustrates well that the profit sharing plan can be applied to any kind of business.

The Council of Profit Sharing Industries must be congratulated on publishing this work which will surely interest those businesses who want to get away from beaten paths and find ways to make our economy more human and more democratic.

"Progress-Sharing" can mean Industrial Peace.

An article published in the "Reader's Digest" of September, 1952 and written by Charles E. Wilson, President of General Motors Corp. has particularly attracted our attention.

The Author presents quite briefly but in a very instructive way, the new collective agreement formula agreed upon between the Company of which he is the president, and its employees' union.

This formula has several interesting points, among others, it provides that the contract will run for five years and fixes in advance a method of adjusting and increasing wages during the course of the agreement, all based on scientifically interpreted official statistics.

The Author also makes some interesting comments in regard to the influence of the variation in wages and prices on inflation. These considerations are based on statistics covering a period of thirty years in the economic life of the United States.

He claims that increases in workers' wages do not cause inflation, but try to follow previous increases in prices, which are often caused by political decisions.
