

Contributors Collaborateurs

Volume 11, numéro 2, octobre 1982

URI : <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/1019035ar>

DOI : <https://doi.org/10.7202/1019035ar>

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

Urban History Review / Revue d'histoire urbaine

ISSN

0703-0428 (imprimé)

1918-5138 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

(1982). Contributors. Urban History Review / Revue d'histoire urbaine, 11(2), 53-53. <https://doi.org/10.7202/1019035ar>

Contributors/Collaborateurs

Michael Simpson is a Lecturer in American History at the University College of Swansea in the University of Wales. He has written on middle-class housing in Glasgow and on planning in Ohio, and is currently preparing a biography of Thomas Adams. [Professor Michael Simpson, Department of History, University College at Swansea, Singleton Park, Swansea, Wales SA2 8PP, U.K.]

Leonard K. Eaton has taught at the University of Michigan since 1950. He has been a visiting professor at Wayne State University, Michigan State University and the University of Victoria and has lectured at the universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. [Professor L.K. Eaton, College of Architecture and Urban Planning, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.]

Robert Tittler, Professor of History at Concordia University in Montreal, specializes in pre-industrial England. He has written a biography, Nicolas Bacon (1976), edited The Mid-Tudor Policy with S.J. Loach (1980) and written numerous articles on political and urban themes. [Professor Robert Tittler, Department of History, Loyola Campus, Concordia University, 7141 Sherbrooke Street West, Montreal, Quebec, H4B 1R6.]

Alan Gowans is the author of many books and articles on North American architecture, including Looking at Architecture in Canada and Building Canada. He is currently on leave from his professorship at the University of Victoria as Senior Fellow in the Center for Advanced Study in the Visual Arts, National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., where he is working on a study of the interrelationships of style and social function in North American architecture. [Professor Alan Gowans, Department of History in Art, University of Victoria, Victoria, British Columbia, V8W 2Y2.]

Notes and Comments/Notes et commentaires

Canadian Housing Information Centre

The Canadian Housing Information Centre (CHIC) holds 60,000 publications on all aspects of housing, building and community development. As part of the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, its services are available to the public, as well as to CMHC employees, and are regularly used by people in the housing industry, teachers, students and researchers and officials of all levels of government.

Research Reports

One of CHIC's most valuable services is to make available copies of all research reports undertaken under Part V of the National Housing Act, which requires CMHC to have studies made of housing in Canada and to disseminate information likely to improve housing and the community environment.

These studies, prepared by consultants and academics as well as CMHC staff, cover a wide range of social, economic and technical matters: the design, construction and rehabilitation of housing; manufactured housing and mobile homes; energy efficiency and noise reduction; infrastructure; market studies; urban planning; mortgage arrangements; and the special housing needs of native people, the aged, children and the handicapped. During 1981, the International Year of Disabled Persons, CHIC offered to act as a clearing house for information dealing with housing and handicapped people and published a selected bibliography on the subject. (CHIC publishes and distributes semi-annually a listing of all Part V studies under way or recently completed, entitled "Recent Part V Research Reports and Projects.")

Accessibility

CHIC has computer access to all the major housing reference sources, can search the literature in your subject area and provide you with factual information or a bibliography.

Special Collections

In addition to its Part V reports and its material on housing for disabled persons, CHIC has a number of other special collections, including maps, master plans, housing, transportation and other studies relating to Canadian municipalities with populations of more than 5,000. Another collection includes all reports from the United Nations Human Settlements Conference, "Habitat," which was held in Vancouver in 1976. Many government